

PASSED BAD MONEY.

Man and Two Women Caught with Spurious Coin.

Detectives Think They Are Members of a Counterfeiting Gang.

Search Will Be Made To-Day for the Coining Plant.

Stefano Chieto, Fannie and Annette Caravel, all of 155 Fourth street, were remanded by Justice Ryan in Jefferson Market Police Court this morning to the custody of the United States authorities on a charge of passing counterfeit money.

Later they were arraigned before Commissioner Shields, who held them in $2,000 bail each, for examination Friday afternoon.

The man and his female companions were arrested last night, and, according to Detective Quinlan, who assisted in the capture, they were caught "red-handed."

For several weeks past complaints have been made to the police of the Charles street station that counterfeit coin was being circulated in the precinct. The ward men and officers were cautioned to keep a sharp lookout, but nothing resulted until last night, when Dora Jackson, who keeps a grocery store at 377 Hudson street, called at the station-house and exhibited three counterfeit one-cent pieces, which she had received in payment for goods from three Italians. Before Mrs. Jackson had the station-house officers called a confederate, of 575 Hudson street, called and made the same complaint.

Detectives Quinlan and Brennan were detailed to make an investigation. They got a description of the trio, and having previously learned something of their methods of operation, started after them.

At the corner of Hudson and Bank streets they spotted the three suspects, who were just about to enter a drug store, and placed them under arrest.

On searching their clothing twenty-one of the spurious pieces were found on Chieto and three each on the two women. In Chieto's pockets was also found a number of letters addressed to him at 243 and 255 Elizabeth street and 213 West street. Some of them were mailed from Buffalo. What the contents of the letters were the detectives refused to state, but they intimated that they implicated parties in that city.

The houses at the addresses given will be searched to-day for the plant used in the manufacture of the money. The detectives suspect that the prisoners are members of an organized gang which has been circulating the spurious coin in considerable quantities throughout the downtown districts the last two months.

To an "Evening World" reporter Mrs. Jackson said:

"The two women came into my store last evening, and for 100 cents around while, bought a lemon for two cents. I gave them the change, 23 cents, threw the quarter they gave me into the till and paid no more attention to the matter."

A few moments later, in making change for another customer, I discovered that the quarter was a counterfeit. I ran out after the two women, and found them about three blocks away. The man was with them.

I saw the women come out of another store and immediately the man joined them. Three of them were rather too much for me, so I hurried to the Charles street police station and told my story."

"At the station their pockets were searched and enough small articles were found in them to start a general merchandise store. There were lemons, apples, boxes of matches, hairpins, and a whole lot of other things."

Attorney F. J. Kinnear represented the defendants, stating that the women informed him that they were the victims of a handkerchief and gave it to the man.

LATE CARS ON MADISON AVENUE.

If Harlemites Want Them They'd Better Go to Court Friday.

The City Improvement Society has interested itself in an effort to compel the running of cars on Madison avenue above the Eighty-sixth street station after 2 o'clock in the morning, and Louis Hanneman, Corporation Attorney, has submitted a suit against the New York and Harlem Railway Company, to recover the penalty of $100 for the failure of the Company to comply with the ordinance which provides that all trunk railway lines shall run cars the twenty-four hours around the city.

Harlemites to attend as witnesses. Every other trunk line in the city now obeys this ordinance, but Supt. Skitt, of the Fourth and Madison avenue line, says that there is no travel on the line above Eighty-sixth street 2 o'clock in the morning, the cars not taking in 25 cents a night when the experiment of all-night was tried.

A similar suit against the Dry Dock Line, running the green cars from the Post Office to Twenty-third street ferry, was decided against the Company some years ago by Justice Colford. The judgment was affirmed by the General Term of the Common Pleas Court, but permission was given to the Corporation to appeal. The appeal was reversed on the ground that the Corporation had not furnished sufficient proof of the necessity for running cars after 2 A. M. Therefore, if Harlemites want all-night cars on Madison avenue they will have to hustle with their evidence.

Bridge May Yet Span the Hudson.

Andrew H. Green, President of the New York & New Jersey Bridge Company, is not very much cast down at the action of President Cleveland in vetoing the bridge bill. He is to be at once prepared, which Mr. Green thinks will meet all the President's objections.

STEAMER CIVIC IN PORT.

The White Star Line's New Freight-er Had a Stormy Passage.

The new freight steamer Civic, of the White Star Line, arrived in port this morning, after a trip of twelve days' duration. Capt. Nicol reports that the vessel had a continuation of severe west-

STOLE $1,300 WORTH OF SILK.

Elbert Burgen Admits He Robbed the H. B. Clafin Company.

Worked at Night and Sold the Goods to Dressmakers.

Elbert Burgen, twenty-nine years old, of 178 East Seventy-seventh street, the clerk of the H. B. Clafin Company who was arrested last Saturday for the larceny of goods from the firm, has confessed.

Burgen has been married two years, and is the father of a baby, but his thieving has been done to secure money to entertain Miss Lizzie Rourke, of 135 East Fifteenth street, and to pay for his fashionable living, which far exceeded his salary.

Detectives Grabe and Muller, of the East Seventy-seventh street station, noticed Burgen two or three weeks ago acting suspiciously at Sixty-seventh street and Third avenue. They followed him and learned his address, and then found he was employed by the Clafin Company. From that time the detectives watched him constantly. Last Friday they saw him come out of the store, after which he went to a saloon in Chambers street, one at Fourth avenue and Fifth street and another at Third avenue and Twenty-seventh street.

In the latter place Burgen went into a rear room, where he was seen to have a bundle that he did not have when he entered. Last Saturday, he repeated the visit to the saloon, and the Twenty-seventh street place secured another bundle, as he had done Friday afternoon.

In the mean time Detective Grabe and Muller learned his habits, and Saturday evening they arrested him after leaving his home on Sixty-seventh street. He had a roll of silk wrapped about his body. Burgen resisted arrest and made an attempt to pull a revolver, which, however, was not loaded.

Last Sunday morning Burgen was arraigned in Yorkville Police Court, and confessed that he had been stealing for the past six months, and that he had stolen goods, mostly silk, to the value of about $1,300 in that time. He also told the detectives that in a closet on the third floor of the Clafin Company's store they would find $250 worth of silk. This they found, together with a dark lantern and a candle, giving evidence that he had visited the place after dark.

Last Saturday Burgen purchased two tickets for Nibbs's Theatre, and then called upon his friends, with whom he spent some little time. In the evening both went to the theatre, after which he took her home and remained for a short time.

In the Yorkville Police Court to-day three dressmakers identified Burgen as a man from whom they had purchased silk. They were Mrs. Ada O'Neil, of 208 East Forty-first street, Miss Alphonsine Schiller, of 108 West Forty-second street, and Mrs. Leonard, of 724 West Avenue, Brooklyn.

Burgen placed advertisements in the personal columns of the newspapers, which they gave me into the till and paid no more attention to the matter.

Burgen was held in $1,000 bail for examination.

NOT TO BE EXCOMMUNICATED.

Archbishop and St. Stanislaus Church Not Opposed.

"The story published in a morning paper purporting to be an account of friction between Archbishop Corrigan and the members of the St. Stanislaus Roman Catholic congregation, and the alleged threats of the Archbishop to excommunicate the members of the congregation, is a tissue of falsehoods from one end to the other," said Lawyer William J. Lardner, counsel for both churches, who today in the Supreme Court, after a hearing, declared that the alleged threats of the Archbishop to excommunicate the members of the congregation, and the alleged threats of the Archbishop to excommunicate the members of the congregation, is a tissue of falsehoods from one end to the other."

The facts in the case are simply that the St. Stanislaus congregation, which has been struggling along for several years building up a church and school, brought suit to bring it in the Supreme Court, and is one for a jury to decide.

The case first came up in a district court, and I, acting as counsel for the congregation, defeated the action there. The case is now on for a jury to decide.

It was a bit of sharp practice that the case was called out of an out of term of the court.

The case is simply one of ejectment, brought by the congregation against the congregation, and is one for a jury to decide.

Later Lawyer Lardner submitted his case to Judge Trux and the Judge sustained him in his claim that it was a case for a jury, and so ordered.

Postmasters to Resign Congress.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23.—Postmaster W. C. Carr has received word from Postmaster Layton of New York that he will act in conjunction with the postmasters of the leading cities of the country in their endeavor to have Congress make a law to require the resignation of postmasters instead of to the Department at Washington.

Had a Stolen Pawn Ticket.

In the East Market Police Court to-day Jeremiah Murray, twenty-eight years old, of 30 Oak street, was held for trial on a charge of burglary. A week ago the apartments of Peter J. Tolan, of 124 Cherry street, were entered and $100 worth of wearing apparel, jewelry and a gold watch, also a silver watch, were stolen. Murray was arrested while trying to sell the pawn ticket. He denied the charge of burglary.

Meek Association Hall.

The members and friends of the James P. Meek Association, will have a jolly time this evening at the Central Opera House. Sixty-seven street, near 42nd street. The concert is the annual institution. The Committee of Arrangements, Chairman James Campbell, John J. Meek, and others, are soliciting contributions. A grand evening to all guests.

ed for her, being built from the most improved design. She is 60 feet long, 60 feet beam, and 24 feet deep. Her gross tonnage is 8,302, and her total carrying capacity is over 10,000 tons.

She can carry 800 head of cattle and 20 horses on her deck, the stowage for the horses being ample and the stowage for the cattle being ample. She has twin screws and triple expansion engines.

The ship was built by Harland & Wolff, of Belfast, Ireland. She has four small pole masts and one funnel. Her bridge is forty feet from the water, being more lofty than that of the Mauretius or Teutonic of the same line. Her stowage for the cattle is ample and the stowage for the horses being ample.

On this, her maiden trip, she brings about 2,000 tons of cargo. There are also on board two horses, the stallion, and a mare, and the filly Beatrice, and a pack of twenty-five fox hounds, and a pack of twenty-five fox hounds, and a pack of twenty-five fox hounds.

The Civic is a model of her class, and is especially fitted up for the work intended.

THE NEW WHITE STAR FREIGHT 5 BATER CIVIC.

small pole masts and one funnel. Her bridge is forty feet from the water, being more lofty than that of the Mauretius or Teutonic of the same line. Her stowage for the cattle is ample and the stowage for the horses being ample.

On this, her maiden trip, she brings about 2,000 tons of cargo. There are also on board two horses, the stallion, and a mare, and the filly Beatrice, and a pack of twenty-five fox hounds, and a pack of twenty-five fox hounds, and a pack of twenty-five fox hounds.

SMALL-POX IN THE ASYLUM.

The Pest Breaks Out Among Ward's Island Lunatics.

Smith, the First Patient, Hasn't Left the Island in a Year.

Small-pox has broken out on Ward's Island among the 1,000 inmates of the Ward's Island Insane Asylum. The health authorities had hoped to confine the disease to the Charity Hospital, on Blackwell's Island, but yesterday afternoon an inmate patient in the asylum suddenly developed the disease.

The patient is Henry Smith, forty-eight years old, who has been confined on Ward's Island for at least ten years. He is a chronic insane patient, and has not been off the island in twelve months. How he caught the small-pox is a matter that is puzzling the brains of the Health Department physicians this morning.

Dr. Macey is in charge of the Insane Asylum. Two days ago Smith became sick, but nothing strange was thought of his condition and he continued to mingle with his associates in the ward. Yesterday, however, eruptions began to appear on Smith's face and arms, and Dr. Macey then, too late, reported to the duty, at the Bureau of Contagious Diseases, that there was a case in the asylum of a very suspicious nature.

A physician, who was sent to Ward's Island soon saw that it was a case of small-pox, and Smith was hurried off to North Brother Island on the last boat yesterday.

Then other health officials went to the asylum and began to vaccinate the insane inmates.

The work is still being prosecuted this morning. Each of the inmates of the asylum was thoroughly fumigated and the walls washed down with bichloride of mercury.

The health authorities had hoped that the thorough vaccination given the inmates three months ago, when all the public institutions were receiving attention, would be the means of averting the disastrous spreading of the infection among the poor, crazed unfortunates.

Two other cases were reported this morning in the Insane Asylum. One of the inmates, a man named George, was removed from the asylum and placed in a private hospital. The other case, a woman named Mary, was removed from the asylum and placed in a private hospital.

Do You Want a Situation AS

COOK

DRESSMAKER

WAITRESS

TYPEWRITER

HOUSEWORKER

STENOGRAPHER

SEAMSTRESS

CHAMBERMAID

LAUNDRESS

CLERK, &c.?

10 Cents

will pay for a 20-Word Advertisement in The Morning World on a Week-Day or Sunday.

DAILEY CONTRACT ILLEGAL.

Commissioner Andrews So Advised by Counsel.

Garbage Contracts Will Now Be Regularly Advertised For.

Defendant Paine Arrested.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 24.—Charles Paine, the defendant in the case of the Portland Police, was arrested here late last night on complaint of the Eastern Exchange. Paine recently left the city, after embarking $4,000 from the Society.

Events to Come.

Illustrated lecture by Prof. Albert Bickmore, Central Baptist Church, West Forty-second street.

Entertainment and reception of American Council, No. 64, Royal Arcanum, Central Opera House, Tuesday evening.

Bureau anniversary celebration by the New York Society, at the Casino Hotel, tomorrow night. Gratian by Parks Godwin.

Second annual ball of the De La Vergne Society, at the Casino Hotel, tomorrow night. Gratian by Parks Godwin.

The Columbia Club will hold its fourteenth annual masquerade ball at Lexington Avenue Hotel, 119-121 East Eleventh street, Tuesday evening, Jan. 25.

Wire News in Brief.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave P. Tolan and Miss Murray, teachers in the Catholic school at 100 West 10th street, were drowned while attempting to ford Ford Park Creek on Sunday.

The jury in the case of Wallace Hurl, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Hurl, was impaneled in September last. The trial was adjourned until the next term of court, and is now on for a verdict, or the action of the sickness of a juror.

Henry Finkert, of 242 Elk street, Albany, aged twenty-four, died of an attack of carbolic acid last night, and is being buried at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave P. Tolan and Miss Murray, teachers in the Catholic school at 100 West 10th street, were drowned while attempting to ford Ford Park Creek on Sunday.

The jury in the case of Wallace Hurl, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Hurl, was impaneled in September last. The trial was adjourned until the next term of court, and is now on for a verdict, or the action of the sickness of a juror.

Henry Finkert, of 242 Elk street, Albany, aged twenty-four, died of an attack of carbolic acid last night, and is being buried at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave P. Tolan and Miss Murray, teachers in the Catholic school at 100 West 10th street, were drowned while attempting to ford Ford Park Creek on Sunday.

The jury in the case of Wallace Hurl, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Hurl, was impaneled in September last. The trial was adjourned until the next term of court, and is now on for a verdict, or the action of the sickness of a juror.

Henry Finkert, of 242 Elk street, Albany, aged twenty-four, died of an attack of carbolic acid last night, and is being buried at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave P. Tolan and Miss Murray, teachers in the Catholic school at 100 West 10th street, were drowned while attempting to ford Ford Park Creek on Sunday.

The jury in the case of Wallace Hurl, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Hurl, was impaneled in September last. The trial was adjourned until the next term of court, and is now on for a verdict, or the action of the sickness of a juror.

Henry Finkert, of 242 Elk street, Albany, aged twenty-four, died of an attack of carbolic acid last night, and is being buried at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave P. Tolan and Miss Murray, teachers in the Catholic school at 100 West 10th street, were drowned while attempting to ford Ford Park Creek on Sunday.

The jury in the case of Wallace Hurl, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Hurl, was impaneled in September last. The trial was adjourned until the next term of court, and is now on for a verdict, or the action of the sickness of a juror.

Henry Finkert, of 242 Elk street, Albany, aged twenty-four, died of an attack of carbolic acid last night, and is being buried at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave P. Tolan and Miss Murray, teachers in the Catholic school at 100 West 10th street, were drowned while attempting to ford Ford Park Creek on Sunday.

The jury in the case of Wallace Hurl, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Hurl, was impaneled in September last. The trial was adjourned until the next term of court, and is now on for a verdict, or the action of the sickness of a juror.

Henry Finkert, of 242 Elk street, Albany, aged twenty-four, died of an attack of carbolic acid last night, and is being buried at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave P. Tolan and Miss Murray, teachers in the Catholic school at 100 West 10th street, were drowned while attempting to ford Ford Park Creek on Sunday.

The jury in the case of Wallace Hurl, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Hurl, was impaneled in September last. The trial was adjourned until the next term of court, and is now on for a verdict, or the action of the sickness of a juror.

Henry Finkert, of 242 Elk street, Albany, aged twenty-four, died of an attack of carbolic acid last night, and is being buried at the hospital.

ANNUAL SALE

Winter Clothing

Fur Lined Overcoats

Formerly $200 and $150, now $100 and $80.

Usters of Imported Materials

Formerly $15 to $30, now $8, $10 and $15.

Overcoats, English Meltons

Formerly $35 to $20, now $8, $10 and $15.

Suits reduced, too, the same way.

We consider it more profitable to dispose of this year's goods for less than cost than to carry them over to next season.

And then, people soon get to know where they can find the newest and most stylish goods.

E.O. THOMPSON

TAILOR, CLOTHIER AND IMPORTER,

245 BROADWAY,

Between Park Place and Murray St.

Do You Want a Situation

AS

COOK

DRESSMAKER

WAITRESS

TYPEWRITER

HOUSEWORKER

STENOGRAPHER

SEAMSTRESS

CHAMBERMAID

LAUNDRESS

CLERK, &c.?

10 Cents

will pay for a 20-Word Advertisement in The Morning World on a Week-Day or Sunday.

DAILEY CONTRACT ILLEGAL.

Commissioner Andrews So Advised by Counsel.

Garbage Contracts Will Now Be Regularly Advertised For.

Defendant Paine Arrested.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 24.—Charles Paine, the defendant in the case of the Portland Police, was arrested here late last night on complaint of the Eastern Exchange. Paine recently left the city, after embarking $4,000 from the Society.

Events to Come.

Illustrated lecture by Prof. Albert Bickmore, Central Baptist Church, West Forty-second street.

Entertainment and reception of American Council, No. 64, Royal Arcanum, Central Opera House, Tuesday evening.

Bureau anniversary celebration by the New York Society, at the Casino Hotel, tomorrow night. Gratian by Parks Godwin.

Second annual ball of the De La Vergne Society, at the Casino Hotel, tomorrow night. Gratian by Parks Godwin.

The Columbia Club will hold its fourteenth annual masquerade ball at Lexington Avenue Hotel, 119-121 East Eleventh street, Tuesday evening, Jan. 25.

Wire News in Brief.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave P. Tolan and Miss Murray, teachers in the Catholic school at 100 West 10th street, were drowned while attempting to ford Ford Park Creek on Sunday.

The jury in the case of Wallace Hurl, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Hurl, was impaneled in September last. The trial was adjourned until the next term of court, and is now on for a verdict, or the action of the sickness of a juror.

Henry Finkert, of 242 Elk street, Albany, aged twenty-four, died of an attack of carbolic acid last night, and is being buried at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave P. Tolan and Miss Murray, teachers in the Catholic school at 100 West 10th street, were drowned while attempting to ford Ford Park Creek on Sunday.

The jury in the case of Wallace Hurl, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Hurl, was impaneled in September last. The trial was adjourned until the next term of court, and is now on for a verdict, or the action of the sickness of a juror.

Henry Finkert, of 242 Elk street, Albany, aged twenty-four, died of an attack of carbolic acid last night, and is being buried at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave P. Tolan and Miss Murray, teachers in the Catholic school at 100 West 10th street, were drowned while attempting to ford Ford Park Creek on Sunday.

The jury in the case of Wallace Hurl, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Hurl, was impaneled in September last. The trial was adjourned until the next term of court, and is now on for a verdict, or the action of the sickness of a juror.

Henry Finkert, of 242 Elk street, Albany, aged twenty-four, died of an attack of carbolic acid last night, and is being buried at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave P. Tolan and Miss Murray, teachers in the Catholic school at 100 West 10th street, were drowned while attempting to ford Ford Park Creek on Sunday.

The jury in the case of Wallace Hurl, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Hurl, was impaneled in September last. The trial was adjourned until the next term of court, and is now on for a verdict, or the action of the sickness of a juror.

Henry Finkert, of 242 Elk street, Albany, aged twenty-four, died of an attack of carbolic acid last night, and is being buried at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave P. Tolan and Miss Murray, teachers in the Catholic school at 100 West 10th street, were drowned while attempting to ford Ford Park Creek on Sunday.

The jury in the case of Wallace Hurl, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Hurl, was impaneled in September last. The trial was adjourned until the next term of court, and is now on for a verdict, or the action of the sickness of a juror.

Henry Finkert, of 242 Elk street, Albany, aged twenty-four, died of an attack of carbolic acid last night, and is being buried at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave P. Tolan and Miss Murray, teachers in the Catholic school at 100 West 10th street, were drowned while attempting to ford Ford Park Creek on Sunday.

The jury in the case of Wallace Hurl, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Samuel Hurl, was impaneled in September last. The trial was adjourned until the next term of court, and is now on for a verdict, or the action of the sickness of a juror.

Henry Finkert, of 242 Elk street, Albany, aged twenty-four, died of an attack of carbolic acid last night, and is being buried at the hospital.